The event began with a campus-wide cleanliness activity. NSS volunteers enthusiastically took part in cleaning campus , and nearby areas. The drive aimed to instill the value of cleanliness not just as a hygiene practice, but as a key to environmental care and healthy living.

Following the cleanliness drive, a rally was organized to spread awareness about the importance of tree plantation and environmental conservation. Students marched with banners and eco-friendly slogans, promoting green habits and mindful living. The rally ended with the planting of saplings around the campus, each tree representing a promise to protect and preserve nature.

This joint activity helped students understand how everyday habits—like keeping surroundings clean and planting trees—can create a lasting impact on the environment. It brought attention to the growing challenges of pollution, deforestation, and climate change, while also offering simple yet effective ways to combat them.

Report on-

Poshan Pakhwada: Role of Technology in Nutrition

Date: 16th April 2025

An interactive session on "The Role of Technology in Nutrition", under the theme 'Poshan Pakhwada,' was organised on 16th April 2025 at Dev Samaj College of Education, Sector 36, Chandigarh. The event aimed to highlight how technological advancements are reshaping the way we approach fitness, diet, and overall well-being. With enthusiastic participation from students and faculty, the session focused on the integration of digital tools in nutrition management and the benefits of AI in promoting healthier lifestyles.

Speakers emphasised how fitness apps such as Fitness Paypal and others have become essential tools for tracking daily calorie intake, monitoring physical activity, and setting health goals. These applications help users stay accountable by providing real-time data and personalised insights. The convenience of logging meals and tracking progress encourages individuals to make better choices in their diet and exercise routines.

The session also shed light on how technology has enabled easy access to certified nutritionists through online platforms such as NutriAdmin, Nutrium. People can now consult experts from anywhere and receive customised diet plans tailored to their specific health needs. This is especially helpful for those with limited time or access to in-person consultations.

A major highlight of the session was the role of Artificial Intelligence in assessing diet patterns. AI-powered apps analyse user data—such as age, weight, and activity levels—to generate personalised meal suggestions. Some advanced features even allow users to upload food photos for instant calorie and nutrient analysis. This smart use of technology offers a tuu more precise and efficient way to maintain nutritional balances.

In conclusion, the seminar successfully illustrated how digital tools and AI have made nutrition and fitness management more accessible, accurate, and effective. The integration of technology in health has empowered individuals to take greater control of their well-being, making it easier to adopt and maintain a healthy lifestyle in today's fast-paced world.

Healthcare-Associated Infections (HAIs)

HAIs are infections acquired in healthcare settings, such as hospitals or clinics, during medical care. Common types include urinary tract infections, surgical site infections, pneumonia, and bloodstream infections. They are often caused by poor hygiene, invasive procedures, and antibiotic resistance. HAIs lead to increased patient suffering, longer hospital stays, and higher medical costs. Prevention involves proper hand hygiene, sterilization of equipment, use of personal protective equipment (PPE), and antibiotic stewardship.

2. Rub palms together to create a lather.
3. Scrub the back of each hand and between fingers.
4. Interlace fingers and rub thoroughly.
5. Clean thumbs by rotating one hand around the other.
6. Rub fingertips on palms to clean under nails.
7. Rinse well and dry with a clean towel or air dryer.

- Wash hands for at least 20 seconds.Wash your hands before eating, after using the toilet, after coughing or sneezing, and before/after caring for someone sick.

A Student Discussion Session on

How Sustainable Tourism Can Save Sharks

A discussion on the topic “How Sustainable Tourism Can Save Sharks” was held at Dev Samaj College of Education in collaboration with Hellen Woodsworth Animal Centre and Yuvsatta.

The students were informed about the theme a day in advance so that they could prepare their thoughts and ideas. On the following day, an engaging discussion took place among the students themselves, where they exchanged views on how responsible tourism practices can contribute to shark conservation. During the discussion, students highlighted the threats faced by sharks such as overfishing, fin trade, and habitat destruction. They also suggested that sustainable tourism—through eco-friendly diving tours, shark-watching activities, awareness campaigns, and responsible travel—can both protect marine life and provide alternative sources of livelihood to coastal communities. The conversation encouraged students to think critically about the role of youth in spreading awareness, reducing exploitation of marine species, and making tourism a tool for conservation. The open forum allowed everyone to share their perspectives freely, leading to a meaningful and insightful exchange.

The session concluded with the understanding that small efforts by individuals and communities can collectively make a big difference in saving sharks and ensuring balance in marine ecosystems.

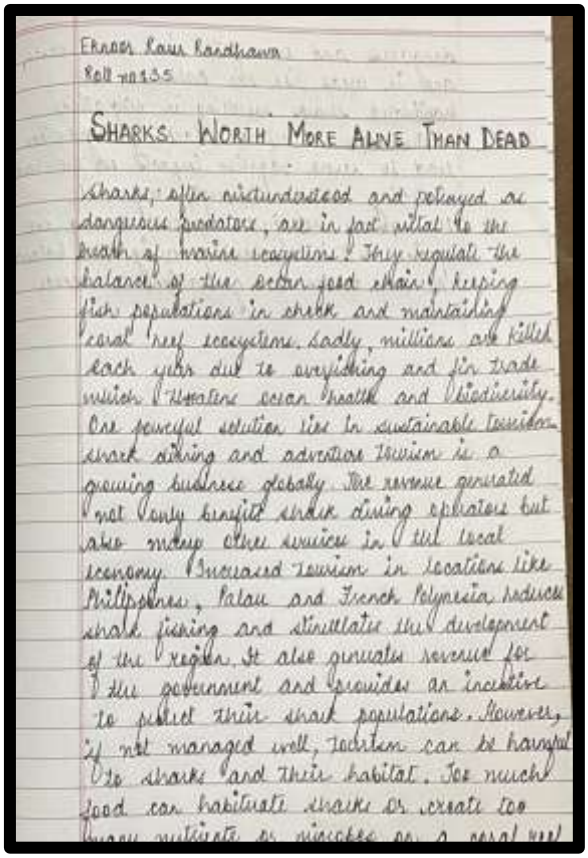

(Students were given some time to jot down relevant points on the theme of the discussion) Key Takeways

How Sustainable Tourism Can Save Sharks

- Sustainable diving tourism helps seeing live sharks instead of dead ones.
- Avoid throwing waste into oceans while visiting tourist places.
- Go to experience only ethical and justifiable tourism
- Awareness campaigns can be used to spread more information by using sustainable shark operators.
- Avoid exploiting shark's natural habitats by adhering to ethical baiting procedures using only natural tactics
- Don't overcrowd shark hotspots
- Don't go to shark nurseries and minimize behavioural disruption
- Reduce overfishing, make sustainable seafood choices, avoid fishines and shark fins.

SHARKS: WORTH MORE ALIVE THAN DEAD

Sharks, often misunderstood and portrayed as dangerous predators, are in fact vital to the health of marine ecosystems. They regulate the balance of the ocean food chain, keeping fish populations in check and maintaining coral reef ecosystems. Sadly, millions are killed each year due to overfishing and fin trade, which threatens ocean health and biodiversity. One powerful solution lies in sustainable tourism. Shark diving and adventure tourism is a growing business globally. The revenue generated not only benefits entire diving operators but also many other services in the local economy. Increased tourism in locations like Philippines, Palau and French Polynesia reduces shark fishing and stimulates the development of the region. It also generates revenue for the government and provides an incentive to protect their shark populations. However, if not managed well, tourism can be harmful to sharks and their habitat. Too much food can habituate sharks or create too

Dates: 4th – 9th October 2025

The Mental Health Awareness Week 2025 organised by Dev Samaj College of Education, Sector 36B, Chandigarh, in collaboration with the Department of Counselling, was conceived as a transformative journey toward emotional awareness, self-reflection, and collective healing. Spanning from the 4th to the 9th of October 2025, the week offered a blend of experiential learning, community outreach, and therapeutic engagement. Each day unfolded with unique themes focusing on mindfulness, creativity, self-care, and empathy, inviting participants to explore the many dimensions of mental well-being. The core objectives of the initiative were to raise awareness and reduce stigma around mental health, promote self-care and emotional resilience, and cultivate mindfulness and creativity through inclusive and experiential activities.

The week commenced on 4th October 2025 with a serene yoga session held at the Floral Garden in Sector 15B, led by Akshay and Avantika. The morning began amidst rustling leaves and soft sunlight, where elderly participants engaged in gentle breathing, grounding, and relaxation exercises. The focus was on cultivating mindfulness, body awareness, and calm breathing to release emotional tension and invite inner peace. In the evening, an interactive public awareness drive was conducted through street interviews that explored people's perceptions of mental health. These candid dialogues revealed curiosity, reflection, and compassion, breaking the silence around mental health conversations and helping normalize open discussions. Complementing this effort, the “Box of Hope and Box of Burden” activity at MCMDAV encouraged participants to symbolically release their worries by placing them in the Box of Burden and drawing affirmations of positivity from the Box of Hope. Messages such as “You are growing, not failing” uplifted spirits and reinforced the message of self-compassion and hope.

5th October 2025

On 5th October 2025, the focus shifted toward mindfulness and creativity through two impactful activities. The day began with a Mood Walk at Sukhna Lake, led by Aditi and Jannat under the guidance of Mrs. Karuna Singh. As dawn broke over the lake, participants engaged in a five-minute silent walk, focusing on gratitude and breath awareness. They reflected on one aspect they were grateful for and one worry beyond their control, transforming the morning into a moving meditation. The session concluded with a silent disco, guided meditation, refreshments, and the sharing of positive affirmations, leaving participants feeling centered and thankful. Later in the day, an Art Therapy Workshop was conducted at Art & Ko for underprivileged and special children, joined by forty diploma volunteers. Led by Tanushree and Pozia under Mrs.

Karuna Singh's supervision, the workshop transformed art into a medium of healing. The children and volunteers painted together, expressing their emotions through colors and shapes that symbolized courage, peace, and hope. The atmosphere was filled with joy, laughter, and connection, demonstrating how creativity can serve as a powerful therapeutic outlet.

6th October 2025

The momentum continued on 6th October 2025, with multiple activities focusing on mindfulness, empathy, and community engagement. The day began with a yoga and meditation session at the Garden of Fragrance in Sector 36B, facilitated by Aroshi. This session helped participants enhance psychological well-being, emotional regulation, and self-awareness through experiential learning. Amidst the calm fragrance of blooming flowers, they practiced grounding and mindfulness techniques that emphasized stillness and the therapeutic power of presence — an essential quality for future counselors.
Later, the volunteers visited DART Parivartan NGO, where they interacted with patients through joyful and empathetic activities. A lighthearted chair race filled the space with laughter, while musical sharing sessions created an environment of connection and acceptance. Volunteers distributed bilingual affirmation cards in English and Hindi with uplifting messages such as "You are beautiful," "You are enough," and "तमु जैसे हो, वैसे ही खबू सरू त हो," which deeply touched and uplifted participants.
In the late morning, the spirit of advocacy came alive through the Affirmation Rally that began at Dev Samaj College and proceeded to MCMDAV College.

Participants carried colorful banners bearing positive mental health messages and collectively chanted, “मानससक स्वस्थ, जीवन का रहसाया” (A healthy mind is the secret to a fulfilling life).The rally became a moving symbol of unity and compassion, amplifying the importance of mental health awareness across the community. Theme: Energy Conservation for Suitable future

"The earth does not ask us to save it with grand speeches. It only whispers - use me wisely."

In the quiet hum of our daily lives - when a light switch clicks on, when a vehicle roars into motion, when a phone charges beside our pillow - we seldom pause to think about the invisible force that fuels it all: Energy. Energy is the unseen heartbeat of modern civilization. It lights our homes, runs our industries, powers our schools, & connects the world through technology. Yet, in our comfort and convenience, we have begun to consume energy not as a responsibility toward future generations. As the world races toward development, the imbalance between energy demand and energy availability is becoming increasingly alarming. The real question is not whether we will face an energy crisis, but how prepared we are to prevent it through conscious conservation.

Energy conservation refers to the judicious and efficient use of energy resources, minimizing wastage while maximizing output. It does not mean living in darkness or giving up comfort; rather, it emphasizes smart usage, efficient technologies, & responsible behavior.

ऊर्जा संरक्षण : सतत भविष्य के लिए

भूमिका

ऊर्जा मानव जीवन की मूल आवश्यकता है। प्राचीन काल से लेकर आधुनिक युग तक मानव ने अपने जीवन को सरल, सुरक्षित और सुविधाजनक बनाने के लिए ऊर्जा का उपयोग किया है। आज के समय में बिजली, पेट्रोल, डीजल, गैस, कोयला और परमाणु ऊर्जा के बिना आधुनिक जीवन की कल्पना भी संभव नहीं है। उद्योग, कृषि, परिवहन, शिक्षा, स्वास्थ्य और संचार - हर क्षेत्र ऊर्जा पर निर्भर है।

लेकिन बढ़ती जनसंख्या, औद्योगीकरण और शहरीकरण के कारण ऊर्जा की माँग निरंतर बढ़ती जा रही है। इस बढ़ती माँग को पूरा करने के लिए प्राकृतिक संसाधनों का अत्यधिक दोहन किया जा रहा है, जिससे पर्यावरण असंतुलन, प्रदूषण और जलवायु परिवर्तन जैसी गंभीर समस्याएँ उत्पन्न हो रही हैं।

ऐसे में ऊर्जा संरक्षण का महत्व और भी बढ़ जाता है। ऊर्जा संरक्षण ही हमें एक सतत (sustainable) भविष्य की ओर ले जा सकता

- ऊर्जा संरक्षण का अर्थ

ऊर्जा संरक्षण का अर्थ है ऊर्जा का समुचित, विवेकपूर्ण और सीमित उपयोग करना तथा अनावश्यक अपव्यय को रोकना। इसका तात्पर्य यह नहीं है कि हम ऊर्जा का उपयोग ही न करें, बल्कि इसका सही समय पर, सही मात्रा में और सही तरीके से उपयोग करें।

ऊर्जा संरक्षण का मुख्य उद्देश्य यह सुनिश्चित करना है कि वर्तमान पीढ़ी की आवश्यकताएँ पूरी हों, लेकिन भविष्य की पीढ़ियों के लिए भी ऊर्जा संसाधन सुरक्षित रहें।

- ऊर्जा के प्रमुख स्रोत

ऊर्जा के स्रोतों को मुख्य रूप से दो वर्गों में बाँटा जा सकता है:

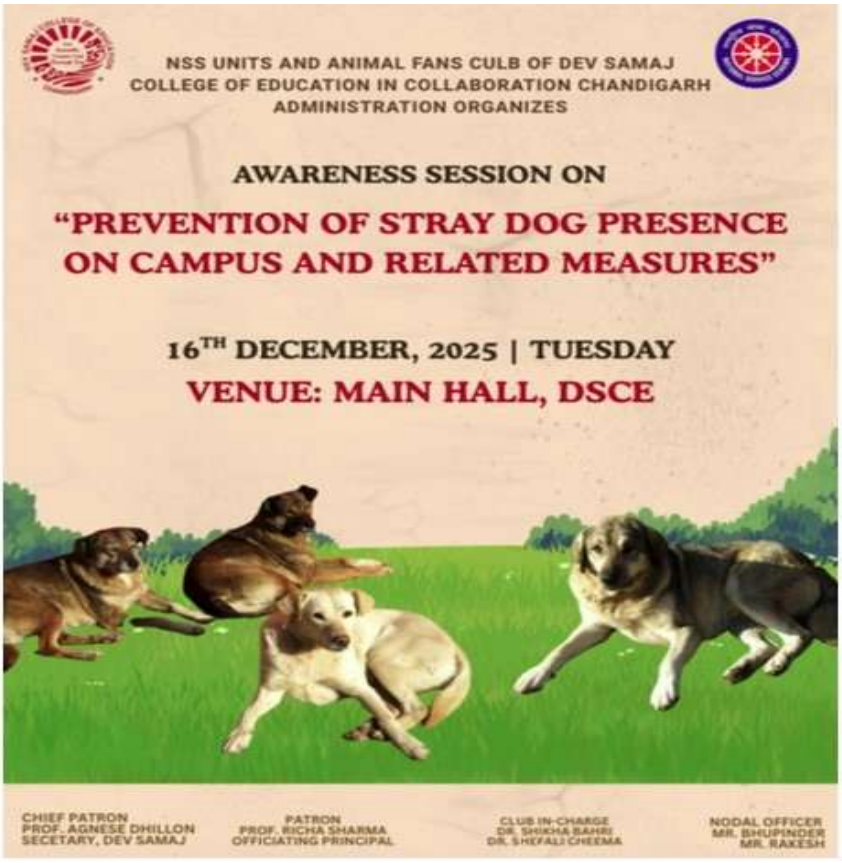

1. अपुनर्नवीनीकरणीय ऊर्जा स्रोत

ये वे स्रोत हैं जो सीमित मात्रा में उपलब्ध हैं और एक बार समाप्त हो जाने पर पुनः प्राप्त नहीं किए जा सकते। जैसे —

- कोयला
- पेट्रोलियम
- प्राकृतिक गैस
- परमाणु ऊर्जा

इन स्रोतों का अत्यधिक उपयोग न केवल इनके जल्दी समाप्त होने का कारण बनता है, बल्कि इससे प्रदूषण भी बढ़ता है।

कोयला, पेट्रोल और गैस जैसे संसाधन सीमित हैं। इनके संरक्षण से हम इन्हें लंबे समय तक उपयोग
